

Solid Footing for Continued Growth

The prior fiscal year's annual report was a somber one focused on a year mired in the restrictions of a pandemic and the cancelation of EAA AirVenture Oshkosh 2020. This year it is a report on the resilience of the association and its success in bouncing back and continuing to grow. It is a testament to our members, volunteers, and donors who all roared back with support for the association that was in line with the pre-pandemic years. Membership grew to 255,154, which we view as a proxy for support that we are delivering the types of programs, member value, and mission-based results that members expect.

AirVenture, our convention and family reunion, returned in 2021. It was clear that it was missed more than anyone could have expected. Volunteers answered the call, ensuring it was run with their traditional caring touch and held to its usual high standards. It was close to being a record year and certainly would have been if travel restrictions for international members had been more lenient. Financially it helped rebuild our solid footing.

I am grateful that our donor support remained strong. It enabled us to remain on schedule to open the EAA Education Center addition to our museum, known as Project 21, earlier this year. We were also able to stay the course on all of the other programs that are completely supported by donor contributions.

This fiscal year rebuilt our financial position, restoring the stability, security, and solid foundation that we have worked so hard to build in the prior years. More importantly, with continued support and focus it will allow for sustained growth in the programs that are delivering results like Young Eagles and AeroEducate. As we close the books on this successful year, we're excited to look ahead as there is so much more we can and will do. Next year will be even brighter.

Sincerely,

Jack J. Pelton

 Homebuilders Week

Sponsored by

Join us on January 26-30, 2021, during the first EAA Homebuilders Week online event. Experts from every corner of the homebuilt aircraft community will bring their knowledge and information to builders everywhere through free and interactive webinars. Topics covered include workshops on sheet metal, welding, and wood; aircraft designs from a variety of industry leaders; part selection when building; buying secondhand; and more.

This weeklong event coincides with the 68th anniversary of the first Experimental Aircraft Association meeting on January 26, 1953. Homebuilders Week will be a tremendous learning opportunity that celebrates our legacy of, as EAA founder Paul Poberezny often said, using hand and mind to create aircraft that allow us to enjoy the personal freedom of flight!

EAA AeroEducate — Online Education Portal to Aviation for Youths

Learning about the world of aviation can start at any age. EAA AeroEducate, a bold new program that opens a wide spectrum of possibilities for young people interested in aviation, officially launched on July 26 at EAA AirVenture Oshkosh. Now, youths ages 5 to 18 years old have access to an interactive, educational, and engaging experience that includes everything from aviation-based activities to learning to fly an airplane for real.

AeroEducate's web-based resource provides clear, age-appropriate pathways to aviation and aerospace engagement, and even career paths. A multitude of turnkey, easy-to-use aviation-themed activities are available for teachers and EAA chapters.

Breaking Ground on Museum Expansion for Year-Round Aviation Education and Training

In late April 2021, EAA broke ground on its first expansion to the EAA Aviation Center in more than 20 years. The capital campaign known as “Project 21” helped raise more than $5.9 million for the new, two-story, 30,000-square-foot facility that will bring year-round aviation education and training to Oshkosh for current and future aviators.

“While the EAA Aviation Museum highlights more than a century of accomplishments in personal flight, a major part of EAA’s mission to grow participation in aviation is to offer high-level programming for current and future pilots,” said Jack J. Pelton, EAA’s CEO and Chairman of the Board. “Project 21 brings that vision to reality, and further strengthens Oshkosh as the home for those who pursue their dreams of flight.”

The project, funded via a capital campaign separate from EAA member dues, will feature an innovative Pilot Proficiency Center and a hands-on Youth Education Center. These facilities are adjacent to the museum’s current Eagle Hangar and will allow individuals and groups to experience all of EAA’s resources on a year-round basis.

The Pilot Proficiency Center features a state-of-the-art skill-building and training center for general aviation pilots. It combines relevant safety forums with challenging simulator training sessions that address key flight safety issues. The new facility will focus on improving pilots’ overall aeronautical decision-making skills.

The Youth Education Center brings aviation-centric experiences to the EAA Aviation Museum year-round. The 15,000-square-foot Youth Education Center will provide youths, their parents, and their teachers access to interactive and project-based activities that inspire and nurture the next generation of aviators.

EAA Space Day was out-of-this-world!

The history and future possibilities of space travel were on full display during EAA's Space Day.

On October 9, EAA's museum education team welcomed about 920 people for its first event since COVID closings took place. Space Day: Celebrating Women in Space gave people the opportunity to learn more about the science and technology used in aerospace.

Nicole Stott, veteran NASA astronaut, was the featured speaker for the event. Stott shared her experiences as a crew member during space shuttle flights in 2009 and 2011, as well as about her time living more than 100 days aboard the International Space Station.

During the event, Space Day participants could climb inside a full-scale replica of the Mercury and Gemini space capsules, which were used to help NASA get ready for the Apollo moon landings. Then afterward, they could design their own re-entry capsule and test it in a wind tunnel.

Other activities included a moon game, where families and friends worked together to solve a series of challenges founded in science about living and doing research on the moon, and hands-on rocket-building using foam, compressed air, and fizz from Alka-Seltzer tablets.

Soaring in the Sunset - Kylie Murray Memorial Flight Training Scholarship

Flying was a part of Kylie Murray, but far from all of her.

Kylie found comfort and joy being in flight. Her positive outlook on life was reflected in each and every challenge she set her mind to. As an active flight instructor, ski and snowboard instructor (at Steamboat Mountain!), lifeguard, captain of her soccer team, deacon at her church, member of Greek life, and much more, Kylie was multi-dimensional.

"Flying allowed her to be free in the sky and take in the surroundings," Kylie's mother, Lisa Murray, said. "She felt a lot of joy in the whole idea of being in flight." In 2018, during Kylie's senior year at Lake Forest High School in Illinois, she earned her private pilot certificate.

When COVID 19 hit in 2020, Kylie was pursuing a Professional Flight degree at Auburn University in Alabama. School shut down. She was sent home. Like many in the general aviation community, Kylie used that extra time to take to the skies. That's when she found Cub Air Flight in Hartford, WI.

Kylie's parents recall her expressing interest in flying a Piper Cub for many years. Kylie would drive more than an hour and 30 minutes—one way!—nearly every day to enjoy the flying and special aviation environment at Hartford.

Leadership was a natural quality of Kylie's. It didn't matter who she was working with, everyone looked up to her for her patience and approachability. It was no surprise when she became the youngest flight instructor at Cub Air Flight, earning her the nickname "Baby Quack". She was doing what she loved best and was surrounded by a community she found just as passionate as herself.

Kylie passed away from an aircraft accident in July of 2021. To keep Kylie's memory soaring, her parents, Geoff and Lisa, established the Kylie Murray Flight Training Scholarship with the EAA Aviation Foundation. The scholarship will be awarded through EAA's Ray Scholars program, which strives to make a positive impact on youths and young adults alike who have a strong passion for aviation. In addition to financial support, the Ray Scholars program connects recipients with a local chapter that offers moral support throughout flight training and creates a welcoming environment for young aviators.

Active in aviation, Kylie came up to experience AirVenture in Oshkosh, WI many times. EAA captured what she loved about Cub Air Flight – an outreach to young and aspiring pilots, a passionate community, and planes flying everywhere.

Kylie often talked about how few female pilots there were and how she wanted more women to fly. She would hope the recipient of this scholarship be just as passionate and active as she was. The recipient of Kylie's scholarship will have the following characteristics similar to her:

- Woman ages 16 – 19
- Committed interest to earning an aviation-oriented college degree including, but not limited to, aviation management, professional flight, aviation maintenance, and aeronautical engineering
- Active in high school including a requirement that the recipient be a student-athlete, actively participating in at least one high school sport

"It can be overwhelming for a lot of people on the financial end [to fund aviation]," Geoff and Lisa Murray said. They chose to create the scholarship with EAA because they can offer direction on where to go and start. "It's wonderful that EAA can do that."

Kylie's evenings were best spent flying at sunset. We are reminded of her contribution to the aviation community with each sunset.

"She found a love," Geoff Murray said. "Up there, it really clicked."
