Stronger Together

As I look back on our past fiscal year, there's a lot that I would like to forget. But there's also a lot that's been accomplished in 2020 that gives us reason to be excited about our future. We have all been affected by the shared experiences of a pandemic. We had to do things that we've not done before, but our resilience kept us strong. Like most, EAA was faced with making a lot of sacrifices. There were layoffs, there were furloughs, there were stay-at-home mandates, but there was collective commitment from our staff, who in constant contact with our members, and we have not wavered on delivering the programs that we always deliver year-round. We never missed a publication or newsletter. We held a virtual AirVenture and homebuilders week. We doubled down on the number of webinars, and lots of our offerings were delivered in new ways. The tough reality surrounding the first-ever cancellation of EAA AirVenture Oshkosh had a deep negative economic impact on EAA, the aviation industry, and the surrounding communities, but one thing is for sure: We came out of this stronger. There was proof that The Spirit of Aviation is alive in all of us, even in some of the darkest times.

That is the common thread connecting all of us. That spirit that keeps moving us forward to support the opportunities that provide access to the pathways we're creating at EAA to build aviation interest, to sustain it, and more importantly, to grow it.

We are heading into the final phase of fundraising for Project 21 and are looking forward to the grand opening in the spring of 2022. This expansion will make the EAA Aviation Museum even more of a premier destination for all things aviation, and we're excited for our members to make the trek to Oshkosh throughout the year to take advantage of everything we'll have to offer. Project 21 will stand in tribute and testimony to the support and strength of EAA's membership, and that of our partners who understand and believe in the mission of our organization. You'll also be hearing a lot more in the coming months about AeroEducate, which will provide a series of educational opportunities for young people considering careers in just about any aspect of aviation.

This past year has been a difficult one, to say the very least. It's easy to look back and dwell on the many negative aspects of 2020, but the reality is that we have so much to be thankful for. Our membership is now more than 244,000 strong. As we continue to move forward and launch new pathways for access to aviation, I am honored to lead this organization. I am grateful and thankful for our members and supporters, and I know that we are truly stronger together.

Sincerely,

Jack J. Pelton
EAA CEO and Chairman of the Board

Audrey Poberezny

On November 1, at age 95, Audrey Poberezny, wife of EAA's late founder Paul Poberezny, passed away. The quiet power behind the leader in EAA's formation and development was certainly Audrey Poberezny. She supported Paul from the very earliest days of EAA, from being the sounding board for ideas and balancing the books, to answering the phone and typing out membership cards. Audrey did whatever needed to be done, but never sought the spotlight for herself. Her understanding of people was also a gift that helped EAA grow and thrive into its unique place in aviation, and her warmth will be remembered by all who knew her. She was indeed EAA's First Lady.

Our best remembrance is to live up to the high standards and inviting culture that Paul and Audrey began with EAA nearly 70 years ago.

Project 21

Early in 2020, before the pandemic hit, the EAA Aviation Foundation publicly launched its capital campaign for Project 21. The goal—raise $5.2 million to fund a two-story, 30,000-square foot addition to the EAA Aviation Museum.

Project 21 will establish a state-of-the-art education and training facility in Oshkosh that allows EAA to offer high-level programming to current and future pilots, year-round. The first floor of the addition will house a Pilot Proficiency Center with Redbird simulators, as well as conference and debriefing rooms for training. The second floor will be a Youth Education Center featuring classrooms and lab spaces for experiential learning.

Through the generosity of donors and organizations who support and believe in EAA's mission, the EAA Aviation Foundation was able to raise 90 percent of the funds needed to make Project 21 a reality. On April 26, 2021, EAA broke ground on the new addition. A grand opening is planned for AirVenture 2022.

Project 21 is the first phase of EAA's Museum Revitalization initiative which aims to add innovative spaces to the EAA Aviation Museum.

The Tale of Two Matching Grants

In 2020, the EAA Aviation Foundation was lucky enough to benefit from not one, but two generous matching grants.

The Sporty's Foundation, a longtime advocate of the Experimental Aircraft Association youth aviation programs, expanded its assistance in July 2020. The program matched all donations made from June 29, 2020, through July 31, 2020, up to $25,000. Despite falling short of the goal, Sporty's generously provided the full $25,000 contribution.

The Ray Foundation, the funding partner behind the Ray Aviation Scholars program and a leadership donor of Project 21, also expanded its assistance during 2020. Launched in July 2020, the program matched all new or increased donations made through February 2021, up to $1 million. With your generous support, we were able to match all $1 million!

Matching grants are a wonderful way to keep donors involved and engaged, and allows for gifts to go twice as far to make EAA's education, safety, advocacy, and outreach programs possible.

Thank you Sporty's Foundation, The Ray Foundation, and all of our donors.

Champions in Flight

The EAA Aviation Foundation's Champions in Flight recognizes those who give $1,000-$9,999 in annual gifts to support EAA's mission of growing participation in aviation.

COVID Impact

The year 2020 was one no one could prepare for. A few weeks into the start of the EAA Aviation Foundation's fiscal year, the world went into lockdown with the growing concerns about the COVID-19 pandemic. The staff quickly transitioned to working from home and Zoom meetings became the new normal. Very real and tough decisions needed to be made to keep everyone safe and healthy. The cancellation of AirVenture 2020 was a difficult announcement to make and the financial impact of the cancellation took a toll not only to the Experimental Aircraft Association but to the local community as well. Fortunately, the EAA Aviation Foundation had been saving its financial reserves for a potential impact such as this. While no one dreamed it would be used to help the organization through a worldwide pandemic, it helped to avoid financial disaster.

The light through the pandemic has been the level of financial support EAA's aviation community displayed. EAA Aviation Foundation donors gave generously, with many increasing their support.

While nothing could replace the only-in-Oshkosh experience of AirVenture, EAA's inaugural Spirit of Aviation Week brought the flying community together like never before — virtually. The five-day event streamed live and on-demand in July and provided content to viewers around the world. The spectrum of flight was showcased through forums, tech talks, workshops, and interviews with industry favorites and historical icons. Participants also explored new products and technologies through a virtual mall of exhibitors.

From virtual presentations about our historical B-17 or other aviation icons, virtual chapter meetings, online webinars and education sessions, and online cockpit tours so people of all ages could virtually visit the EAA Aviation Museum, EAA has shown that general aviation is still very relevant. EAA's ability to quickly pivot has been remarkable.

Thanks to supporters of the EAA Aviation Foundation's Annual Fund for Excellence, major growth was seen in EAA's webinar series, reaching a record of 28,992 people in the 12 months ending February 28, 2021. EAA was able to provide valuable online learning opportunities during a period when traditional aviation events and seminars were not available to our members.

With many safety and health precautions in place, EAA staff returned and the EAA Aviation museum reopened in August 2020. The overwhelming feeling of being back together was evident throughout.

EAA is fortunate to have shown resiliency throughout fiscal year 2021 and all are looking forward to welcoming our members and aviation enthusiasts back to Oshkosh.

Planned Giving

“My first trip to OSH all those years ago was the spark that moved me from reading Richard Bach stories to taking flying lessons and to a certain Hatz biplane. You can see the same spark of possibility in a kid’s eyes today after our Young Eagles flights. Including EAA in my estate planning was an easy way to allow me to live my life, keep flying the Hatz, and help kindle a passion for flight in future generations.”
